

Subject: Magnum Switch Update

Dear Valued Customer:

We are thrilled to share some updates regarding the appearance of our Magnum Switches as part of our ongoing efforts to optimize product offering and enhance consistency with Westlock's core branding. These changes reflect our commitment to innovation, quality, and delivering solutions that meet your needs while maintaining the trusted performance you rely on.

We want to assure you that the core electrical functionality and certifications of the new style magnum switch remain unchanged. The Magnum Switch continues to meet all industry standards and performance expectations, delivering the same reliable, high-quality operation you trust. These enhancements are focused to improve on our sustainability efforts without altering technical specifications or compliance credentials.

Here's a summary of the visual updates to give you a clear understanding of what's new:

1. A brighter yellow hue that aligns with Westlock's signature branding and side egress of wires to streamline our processes to meet our growing customer's demand. The new wire location will not affect the reliability or functionality in switchbox applications.

2. For sustainability and clear identification purposes, the rhodium switch version will have a blue marker on the white conductor instead of the blue cable sheath.

3. For improved visibility, the switch markings are now engraved and appear right-side up in most 2-switch constructions. Note: The rhodium bears "XT-90LP" number instead of "XT-90".

4. As an ordering guideline for spares – the item part numbers SW10000 and SW10108 will end in either -LN5 or -LN8 instead of -L05 and -L08.
